Closeup Sidelights on State Convention Held Tuesday

BY J. W. FISHER

Emphatically declaring that Warren G. Harding is an enemy of progressive government, Governor Cox yesterday, in his opening speech of the campaign in Ohio, flayed the Republican candidate, unmercifully, referring to him repeatedly as a reactionary.

Harding was accused of having been the head of a reactionary group in 1913, which the Governor said had made strenuous efforts to defeat all the laws which the people had demanded that the adoption of the new state constitution.

Having failed to get newspaper support for their attack, Cox declared, the reactionary groups united and circulated all over Ohio a free newspaper published in Harding's printing office in Marion and called the "Ohio Star," named after Harding's daily.

The Governor read two editorials that appeared in Harding's paper, the Marion Star, after the people of Ohio had adopted fifty or more progressive measures to be made law, characterizing the result of the election as the "revolution of 1913."

Referring to the League of Nations and Harding's declaration for a separate peace with Germany, characterized by Cox as an intolerable suggestion, an unspeakable thing, the Governor said: "There will be no separate peace with Germany for two good reasons. Harding will not have the opportunity to make it and I assure you that as President I shall not do it. We are going into the League. We intend to keep faith with those who died that war would be no more."

Cox threw down the gauge of battle in an emphatic manner. There was no missing of words. Dealing with the Ohio situation, Governor Cox paid Vice Donahue, Democratic candidate for Governor, high compliments for his efficiency and square dealing. "There isn't enough money in the world," Cox declared, "to tempt Vice Donahue to do anything that would betray the confidence the people of Ohio have in him."

Chairman M. A. Daugherty, in a lengthy address, punctuated all the way by a withering arraignment of the Republican organization, referred to the Chicago convention as the "Newberry convention," stating that if Harding is elected it will be by the votes of those who, while professing allegiance to America, draw their inspiration from foreign shores. Lodge's speech in Chicago was characterized as a hymn of hate and warned that the State of the United States will be a part of the system of government of the American republic if the progress of the world and the advancement of civilization is to be checked by a coalition of senatorial Catalinians.

Speakers in the state convention, dealing with the League of Nations, for which Governor Cox has declared and against which Senator Harding stands, were a unit in an expression of the belief that had there been a league of nations, there would have been no world war. This statement was made in answer to the Republican charge that a league would promote war. "Nobody knows exactly the Republican position on the League of Nations," Chairman Daugherty said, "and nobody cares."

Personal contact with Charles L. Orwig, soldier candidate for the position of treasurer of the state of the Democratic ticket, leaves no doubt in one's mind that he will be a strong candidate with the people. Orwig suffered the loss of a leg in the fighting in the Argonne. He is possessed of an appealing personality, is clean, cut and capable and needs only a fair amount of support for the voters of the state to meet him to insure strong support. He doesn't need to enter upon a speaking campaign.

Adjutant General Roy E. Layton, in Columbus Tuesday, explained the circumstances in connection with the temporary detention of the Governor Cox touring car party at Jacksonburg, Sunday, when returning to Columbus from Wheeling, West Virginia. "The village marshal at first charged that we had violated the law by speeding thru Jacksonburg, but later stated that the offense was committed two miles out of the village on the country highway." As a matter of fact, we were not going more than 35 miles an hour and the belief that it had been planned to trap the Governor's party was given color by the fact that there were dozens of cars on the road, headed for Columbus, and that time after time other cars, running more rapidly, passed us on the road. These were not detained. Such incidents add to the popularity of a presidential candidate, in the opinion of most folks as it evidences the fact that he is a hustler. It will be recalled that Theodore Roosevelt, as a candidate for president, was twice arrested in Wisconsin for "speeding," and that Taft has a similar experience.

Cuyahoga county Democrats, to the number of several hundred, with the Fourth Regiment band, accompanied Secretary of War Newton D. Baker to Columbus. The Secretary, in a brief and concise manner, clinched the arguments of other speakers as to why the United States ought to go into the League of Nations. Explaining the famous Article X of the covenant, Secretary Baker said: "Article X is a substantial and effect guarantee of the political and territorial integrity of the nations in the league. It is the Monroe doctrine applied to the world in keeping the peace. In my opinion it is the very heart of the league and does not mean that American soldiers could be ordered by foreign rulers as our Republican friends would have the people believe, as war cannot be declared affecting American soldiers, save by congress. What the Monroe doctrine has done for the Americans the League will do for the world. It's very moral effect, with America in it, would effectually prevent war."

When Governor Cox told the audience that he probably would not soon again have an opportunity to address an Ohio audience, as he intended making an extended speaking campaign in other states, an enthusiastic supporter in the audience shouted "Go to H. J. Jimmy," we'll keep the home fires burning."

Memorial Hall was a riot of color on the occasion of the state Democratic convention. The national colors were in evidence everywhere and the musical program by the Fourth Regimental band, various clubs and soloists, drew the crowd of thousands for the more important events of the afternoon. As Governor Cox began his address, the official opening of the campaign in Ohio, cannons in the courtyard of the Memorial Hall boomed out a salute. Special trains from Cincinnati, Cleveland and other points carried thousands of visitors into Columbus.

By vote of the convention, the master was adopted as the official emblem of the party in Ohio. Judges that appeared on the laps of the seats of the crowd evidenced the fact that the action of the convention had been anticipated.

Democratic of St. Marys and townships surrounding the city, in August, are organizing a Cox-Donahue club to assist in giving local support in that territory to Ohio's Governor and his running mate.

Charles W. Niles, city auditor of St. Marys, lifelong Republican and twice elected to office, that day, created a sensation among adherents of the G. O. P. in western Auglaize when he announced that he intended supporting the Democratic national ticket. He repudiated Harding, charging that the Marion man is so reactionary that he cannot support him.

Gubernatorial candidate A. V. Donahue is expected to formally open his speaking campaign in Putnam county Thursday, and will talk to the people of that territory. Donahue's speciality is efficiency as a fiscal officer; he is not what might be termed an orator, but the fact he turns loose as of value to the tax payer. Donahue told the state convention assembly Tuesday that in event of his election as Governor, if the legislature did not promptly enact legislation to remedy tax evils, he would call the law making body in special session after week end, until the right results were obtained.

The destinies of the Democratic campaign in Ohio will be under the guiding hand of W. W. Durbin of Kenton, father of F. W. Durbin of Lima, the Kenton man having again been chosen chairman of the Democratic state executive committee. Tuesday, a delegation from the county of selecting former prominent office holders as electors at large, the convention decided to place on the ballot the names of a farmer and a labor man—Oscar E. Bradfute of Xenia, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation and James P. Baker of Cleveland, superintendent of the employment bureau of the Cleveland Federation of Labor.

INJURIES FATAL TO SUMMERS

Victim of Explosion Died Late Tuesday at Hospital

The death of Henry Summers, 32, 740 S. Pine-st., who died at St. Rita's hospital late Tuesday, was the final result of an explosion at the boiler explosion at the Galleys and Enley iron works, 500 S. Main-st., at 11 o'clock Tuesday. Summers was crushed by the falling debris resulting from the explosion.

W. H. Powell, who was injured in the explosion, is recovering at the Lima City hospital. Dr. J. B. Poling, who is attending him, said Wednesday his principal injuries consist of burns and a broken arm. Due to the badly swollen condition of the arm, Poling said he will be unable to reduce the fracture until the swelling subsides.

Summers was born March 9, 1888, in Ohio, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Summers, Cincinnati. Besides the widow, he is survived by his parents and three brothers, Edward, Toledo, Ivan, Lima and Charles, residing in the Philippine Islands.

HUSBAND OBJECTS

Says Alimony Allowed by Court in Divorce Excessive

Fredrick Roda, superintendent of lines and substations of the Ohio Electric railway, Springfield, sought to have the divorce decision his wife, Donna, secured against him July 31, reopened in common pleas court Wednesday.

Roda declared the court assessed him to great an amount of alimony. "I don't like this way of remaining out of court and taking the consequences, then if I suit, take the wedding and if I don't, comes back into court and complains," Judge Klinger said.

He had ordered Roda to pay $1,000 alimony, $10 weekly to the support of the child until the age of 18 and $100 for attorney fees for Mr. Roda's counsel. Roda failed to appear in court at the time the divorce case was heard.

Judge Klinger took the matter under consideration and suspended the payment of the money until such a time as he should finally decide the matter.

Roda makes $150 a month, testimony showed. The divorce case of Rodney L. Reighart against Sylvia E. Reighart, for desertion, was heard. The wife made no defense.

The action of Alice J. Rupright against Harry Rupright for divorce has been settled out of court and dismissed.

Reports were rife in Columbus and Lima, Tuesday and Wednesday, to the effect that Judge Kent W. Hughes, who was nominated on the Democratic ticket for judge of the Supreme court of Ohio, but withdrew from the ticket, was being prevailed upon to reconsider his decision.

An effort was made to reach Judge Hughes this morning, for a continuation or denial of the rumor, but the effort was unsuccessful. The Lima jurist, with his family, is at Ruggles Beach, on Lake Erie, for a vacation.

TOLEDO'S STREET CAR QUESTION IS PASSED UP TO CITY COUNCIL AGAIN

TOLEDO — The Toledo street car question, often referred to as "political football" here since the days of Brand Whitlock, entered another phase when it was announced that a service-at-cost franchise had been completed and would be submitted to council next Monday night.

Should the ordinance be passed, by council, it is said, it will be presented to a vote of the people at the regular election in November. The franchise issue follows refusal of the majority to approve the municipal ownership ordinance submitted a week ago today.

H. J. Conn, prominent Van Wert attorney, is the winner over Judge Walter H. Kinder of Findlay by the narrow margin of 122 votes in a total of 23,904 cast for both candidates in the sixteen counties of the district.

N. Y. SUN REVIEW

NEW YORK—The Evening Sun financial review Wednesday said: Wednesday's stock market could scarcely be characterized as weak, although the price list was under more or less pressure thru a good part of the session, barring some show of strength in the early phases under the influence of the brighter aspect of affairs in the Russian Polish fighting area.

By mid-day leading shares were moving along sluggishly, going a fraction of a point down. At the beginning of the last hour, the whole list stiffened materially before the close.

MAYS FLAYED BY UMPIRE

Pitcher Charged With Alibi for Chapman's Death

BOSTON, Mass. — (By Associated Press) — The explanation by Carl Mays, of the New York Yankees, that the killing of Ray Chapman, star shortstop of the Cleveland club, was due to a rough spot on the ball, was flayed by umpire William Evans, and William Dineen of the American League.

"No pitcher in the American League resorted to trickery more than Carl Mays in attempting to rough a ball in order to get a break on it which would make it more difficult to hit," the statement said. "Until the new pitching rules came into force which put a severe penalty on a pitcher roughing the ball, Mays constantly used to drag the ball across the pitcher's rubber in order to roughen the surface. Hundreds of balls were thrown out every year because of this act."

The umpires took notice of a remark attributed to Mays that, Thomas Connolly, who was behind the plate, was responsible for the accident, because he permitted a rough ball to stay in the game. The alleged statement was an "alibi" that came with poor grace from the pitcher.

FANS PAY RESPECT

BALLOT GIVEN 25 MILLION WOMEN

STRONG OPPOSITION From its beginning in this country the suffrage movement met determined opposition from women as well as from men. The first organized opposition on the part of women manifested itself in 1873 when a committee of prominent women presented a petition to Congress protesting against the extension of suffrage to women. Mrs. W. T. Sherman, wife of the Civil War hero, headed the committee, of which Miss Catherine Ward Beecher, sister of the famous divine, Henry Ward Beecher, was a member. Various anti-suffrage organizations, no being subsequently, until the National Association opposed the amendment.

Full suffrage is enjoyed today by the women of 21 foreign countries including the new states of Czechoslovakia and Poland and the ancient nations of England, Germany and the Scandinavian countries. Now that the women of the United States have won the right equally with the men to take part in the government of the republic the effect of the women's vote on the political life of the country remains for time to show. Many women are joining the old line parties with their men folk but the National Woman's Party holds its own convention in June and will draw up its platform for the coming campaign. First efforts probably will be directed to the laws on libel, divorce, guardianship and other laws alleged to discriminate against women.

The Elks' lodge has promised $1,000 of this amount and collect $1,000 from hotels and restaurants. The Lima Manufacturers' Association at a recent meeting pledged themselves to pay $600. This leaves the total amount to be raised by subscription at $2,400. Morton announced Wednesday. He asks that every resident who wishes to see the slogan "Lima Leads" carried out to the full extent meet the committee with a smile and a liberal donation, as the state convention of the Elks is to be one of the biggest events of the year.

5,000 ALIENS ARE ARRIVING DAILY

European Troubles Prevent a Larger Immigration

WASHINGTON.—More than 5,000 immigrants are arriving daily at Ellis Island, the department of labor announced in reporting that the tide of emigration which set in after the armistice had been more than balanced by the increasing inflow of immigrants.

Only the lack of transportation facilities and the difficulties of immigration from Central Europe, officials of the department of labor said, had prevented the outstripping of all previous records during the past year. Despite these unfavorable conditions, approximately 800,000 immigrants arrived in the United States during the 12 months ending June 30, as compared with 141,132 during the corresponding period the year before, and the record of 1,285,349 in 1917.

Foreign steamship companies have reported to the immigration authorities that all available accommodations for a year in advance have been booked by prospective immigrants.

CENTRAL EUROPE IS VOLCANO

Regent of Hungary Sees Danger if Poland Crushed

BOLSHEVISTS REAL MENACE

People Suffer For Common Necessities of Life

BUDAPEST.—(By Associated Press)—Hungary's statesmen are fearful of the consequences if the Bolsheviks crush Poland. Admiral Nicholas Horthy, Regent of Hungary, when seen at his palace office by The Associated Press correspondent, said on that subject:

"Should Poland collapse Europe would have to face a serious crisis, since all international order and standing power of Central Europe has been shaken by the breakdown after five years of war and by the crushing peace treaty in addition to other evils in the wake of war. The treaties dictated by the allies were unable to create order and tranquility, on the contrary all our evils grew more acute and all painful problems, on the way of solution more or less in the past, face us grimly like as many sphinxes. Central Europe is a volcano after the eruption, still covered with smoking signs as yet to avert dangers lurking in the future above Europe.

KNOWS SOVIET PLANS "I am informed about the preparations of the bolsheviks. These preparations are not of a recent date and it is not exclusively Hungary they are related to. Bolshevistic propaganda is an enemy of all countries not accepting the principles of the Third Internationale trying to spread its doctrines in the United States and Canada just as well as in Hungary."

The most dangerous means of all bolshevistic offensives is just the propaganda and from that viewpoint there was not a single moment's cessation in the bolshevistic offensive against Hungary. On the contrary it maintains a feverish activity against us by the means of the Hungarian communists fugitives in Vienna aided with Russian money. It is a pity that in many western countries people do not realize the dangers and the means of the bolshevistic propaganda.

HUNGARY'S POSITION

"The relation of Hungary to her neighbors depends solely upon how our neighbors wish to establish it toward us. It is in their interest that the treaty has been forced on us by the allies so that is their duty to start better relations. Altho it is much easier for them to do that, unhappily they show very few signs of their intentions to that effect up to the present. They continue their intolerable attitude toward Hungary to the territories severed from Hungary."

"Day by day for 18 months our people have been fleeing from the occupied territories and our railroad terminals are not large enough to shelter the railroad cars they are living in. These persecuted families of course, are strong advocates of an irredentist propaganda. If our neighbors have a really serious intention to improve general sentiment toward us, they have to make it possible, first of all, for those fellow-countrymen of ours to return home. They have to stop persecutions so that even to that most unfortunate spot of Europe there should be open for everyone a chance to make a living compatible with human dignity. It would be of a first rate importance to have effected that improvement in public sentiment, as a preliminary condition to the resumption of economic connections.

MISERY OF PEOPLE

"The misery of the people of these territories of the former Austro-Hungarian monarchy, a compact, economical territory in the past, is due mainly to the fact, that all the natural, economic ties are cut and they are being forced into the most unnatural connections. We route as an instance, the salt supply of the country which communally would be procured from the mines a few kilometers distant from the present boundary line in Marmaros. In spite of all that we are obliged to supply our needs in salt from Germany. That unnatural order of things increases enormously the cost of living and paralyzes all production."

DIRECTOR FOR COX TOURS PLANNED

Nominee to Confer With Harrison on Subject Today

PERSONAL AIDE PROPOSED

Governor to Speak Tomorrow Night at South Bend

COLUMBUS.—(By Associated Press)—A conference on national campaign plans with Senator Harrison of the national speakers' bureau, was the principal political affair Wednesday before Governor Cox, the Democratic presidential candidate. Senator Harrison was called here to discuss founding out the governor's personal organization for the remainder of the campaign and also affairs referred from national headquarters at New York.

MAY NAME TOUR DIRECTOR. Relief of Governor Cox from direction of details of his speaking itinerary, such as train arrangements, schedule making and other affairs, was one of the subjects to be taken up between the candidate and Senator Harrison. It was expected that the national committee would designate some person to take full charge of the candidate's future tours.

Publicity affairs of the Democratic campaign, it was said, also were to be discussed. Governor Cox has taboored professional "press agents," or personal "publicity directors," and it is understood that none will be attached to the governor's immediate personal staff, but the candidate has other publicity suggestions in mind.

WIDE PROPOSED. Another innovation in the campaign is a suggestion for a personal aide to the governor to assist him thru crowds where he stops for speeches. The candidate, shortly after his nomination, refused attendance of plain clothes men and so far has been without police protection other than from local forces in cities where he has spoken, but his advisers are urging that a big lobby man be assigned to him if only as a human wedge for clearing paths thru crowds.

Governor Cox will leave here Wednesday night to fill a speaking engagement Thursday night at South Bend, Ind., before the Indiana Democratic Editors' Association. He will travel via Chicago, taking breakfast there and arrive at South Bend for luncheon.

SWATTING BUMBLE BEE CAUSE OF AUTO WRECK; NO ONE BADLY HURT
ST. MARYS.—No hints of a serious nature were experienced by Mayor G. M. Raudabaugh, his wife and three children, when their automobile turned over near Conneaut, Ohio. Notice to this effect is filed by Mayor Raudabaugh with Police Chief Ford Miller. It refutes a Cleveland Press report to the effect that the family was under treatment at a Cleveland hospital, where broken glass was being extracted from their faces. They were enroute to Conneaut when a bumble bee came inside their automobile. During the effort to swat the bee Mayor Raudabaugh lost control of his conveyance. He expects to leave his family at Conneaut and proceed alone to the Eagle convention at Syracuse, N. Y.

ALBANIANS NOW WANT AMERICAN OLIVES

TIRANA, ALBANIA.—Albania, where every hillside is thick with olives, wants to import its olives from America. The demand for the American product has grown up since the American reached the country and introduced, for the first time, the bottled green olive as a table delicacy.

The Albanian never dreamed of preserving and eating green olives until the Red Cross workers imported a few cases of the fruit, as prepared in America, for their personal consumption and invited their native friends to taste the unfamiliar dainties. Up to that time the people of the country picked the olives only when they were ripe and black and preserved them in strong brine, which robbed them of all their piquant flavor. The fruit was sold by weight from open vats, which stand beside the doorways of the small shopkeepers, collecting all the dust raised by the passing traffic in the grimy streets.

G. O. P. WRANGLES ABOUT "PORCH"

Harding and His Managers in "Real" Controversy

INDIANS DUE WEDNESDAY

Penrose Urging Candidate to Get Out Into Country

MARION.—(By United Press)—Local lumbermen planned to have Warren G. Harding, Republican presidential nominee as their guest at a picnic at Lincoln Park here Wednesday. Harding plans no formal speech, but may be called on for a short impromptu talk.

Most of the lumbermen are old personal friends and many Democrats are included among them. Harding was also to receive a delegation from the society of American Indians at his front porch.

Efforts to settle at once for all the wrangle over what is to be done about the front porch campaign failed Tuesday and the whole thing is up in the air again Wednesday despite the desire of all parties to get the question out of the way.

HARDING IS CONTRARY

This thing of whether Harding is to stay in Marion or get out of town for several speeches has been argued so strongly from both sides that it threatens to get out of hand and become the subject of a real controversy between Harding and his managers. Harding attempted to get his foot down flatly when his party advisers here threatened to get him to accept several speaking dates. As a result a final decision was held up in the hope of arranging some kind of a program acceptable to both Harding and his political managers.

THREE BILLIONS OF U. S. CASH HIDDEN AWAY. OUT OF CIRCULATION

PHILADELPHIA.—The combined "Ladle Thread National Bank," "The Old Sox Bank" and the "Feather-Bed-Mattress Bank" now hold more than $3,000,000,000 of the country's cash.

This is the estimate of William H. Hutt, acting governor of the Philadelphia Federal Reserve Bank, made of the loose cash being carried around in the pockets and stowed away in various places. He was addressing an organization of business men.

Even a small proportion of this three billions invested in Liberty bonds would bring them back to par, he pointed out, or if the money was deposited in savings banks it would inject new life into industry.

WESTERN DEMOCRATIC HEADQUARTERS OPENED

CHICAGO.—Representative Frank Doremus of Detroit arrived in Chicago today to take charge of the Democratic western headquarters. W. R. Hollister, executive secretary, of the national committee arrived in the morning from Washington. Governor Cox is expected to be in Chicago three hours tomorrow before trains leaving at 10 o'clock in the morning for South Bend, Ind.

BOLSHEVIKI MUST BE CHECKED

SINCE that moment three years ago when the Bolsheviks seized control in Russia, the cut-throat government has been openly hostile to orderly civilization. Although it has been ready at all times to make contracts, it never has concealed its purpose to ignore any obligation that it might assume if it suited its plans to be recalcitrant. It is utterly without honor and so incapable of entering into agreements. Yet for months, ever since the armistice in fact, efforts have been made in certain European capitals to come to terms with the Lenin-Trotsky tyrants and terrorists. Almost up to the present moment some statesmen have been willing to bargain with the Bolsheviks, knowing full well that the original objects of the Bolsheviks remain today the paramount aims of that crowd.

The Bolsheviks will be satisfied with nothing less than the destruction of orderly government throughout the civilized world. They are public enemies to be fought or to be bottled up and permitted to die out. They have been all along the menace to the world that they are today. But it is only now, when the valiant armies of Poland find themselves unable longer to cope with the Russians, that the entente governments are preparing to move to the protection of themselves and all others threatened by the Red hordes.

There is probably great rubbing of hands in Germany over the advance of the Bolshevik armies. The German rejoices as he hears of the crumbling of the Polish lines, and of armistice maneuvers—not that he takes joy in soviet successes as such, but because every mile the Russians advance brings nearer the day, in the Teuton mind, when the nations of western Europe will accept their fate as a comrade to stem the tide of the Slavic invasion.

There has long been reason to believe that the Germans have been looking forward to this hour of opportunity, when they hope to write off a large part of their debt incurred in the Great War by pulling the latest allied chestnuts out of the fire. It would be interesting, indeed, to learn to what extent the Bolshevik military triumphs have been due to Berlin assistance. How many guns has Berlin furnished? How many military advisers? If the new government can plead innocence to such indictments the world will be greatly surprised.

But Germans who have staked much upon Russian successes have overplayed their hand. Poland will not fall, wither to Bolshevik bullets or Bolshevik pamphlets. It is not love for Poland that moves the French and British action now. It is concern for their own welfare. And it has been far too long postponed.

PSYCHOLOGY OF THE TIMES

AS WE enter the fall season, now only weeks away a study of fundamental conditions at home and abroad, leads the trained financial and trade mind to forecast a continued period of deflation. The vast majority of business firms are curtailing and will probably still further curtail, not so much for lack of credit as for the total absence of demand.

In but very few lines are there signs of higher prices to come or of declines from present levels. Steel is still firm with pig iron higher; coal and fuel are rising and will probably go much higher; newsprint has already advanced and been curtailed at the same time, manufacturers making contracts on the basis of 20 percent reduction over consumption of this year.

Exports have declined and imports have increased. The European war situation is not nearly so much a bear factor as conditions at home. The textile trade is apparently dead, and the President of the American Woolen company announces no mills will resume before September. These conditions, are not political, but the result of the public mind, the psychology of the people en masse being on the side of contraction and conservatism.

We are in the second phase of the after-war period, the era of stagnation which can be expected to continue all thru the winter and well into spring. There is no known formula for denying the law of Supply and Demand. Old general demand has quit cold except in but few instances and these few can be enumerated in a sentence, coal, newsprint, steel.

STEERAGE FARES GO UP

THE effect on immigration of increased steerage rates of travel remains to be seen, but that the latest boost piled on others that have preceded it will diminish the inflow of aliens is probable. With steerage fares ranging from $79 to the British Isles to $135 to farther points on the continent of Europe, coupled with the adverse exchange situation, the difficulties of those desiring to emigrate to America are correspondingly increased. These prices are equal to first class passenger fares a few years ago. The situation is likely to have an effect to diminish steerage travel Europeanward also.

Since the bars were lowered many who came here as immigrants before the war have gone back to visit relatives and the scenes of their earlier lives. Others, doubtless, have been contemplating the trip, but in view of the increased cost a lesser number will be likely to carry out their desires in that line. Since greater immigration had been hoped for in order to relieve the shortage in common labor the cost of coming may check the volume of what had recently reached rather large proportions.

In raising the fares steamship companies may be acting from a dual motive—in response to a demand greater than the supply of space and to reap a greater profit from the traffic. It is well known that transportation facilities for first class passengers are and have been far less than the demand and are likely to remain so until the passenger carriers destroyed by the war are replaced. The high fares have stimulated rather than reduced the desire of tourists to go abroad, but such are not bound by the same restrictions that surround an immigrant. The former have the money to spend for pleasure, while the immigrant takes his trip as a matter of business in order to better his station in life.

Yet if the increased cost in fare is met by correspondingly higher wages when one gets here the prospective immigrant will be encouraged to make the effort to accumulate the greater fund necessary. Like in everything else, the higher cost will be passed on to the ultimate consumer.

Every day or so we read of some fellow who was a $10-a-week clerk three years ago and is now worth $16,500. Evidently plenty of money is being made in this country, but as our friend the elevator man says, it is all being made by people you never heard of before.

HOW TO GET THE H.C.U.

Get the Cheaper Cuts of Beet. All that you have to do is to find a butcher shop where they sell the cheaper cuts. We wish you well.

Wear inexpensive but substantial clothing. We guarantee that anybody who does this will save a lot of money. In order to find this sort of clothing, there is no agency better than a outfit board.

Get Your Employer to Raise Your Salary. This is perhaps the best method known of having by some means for a rainy day. It is known as the direct method. All you have to do is to hypnotize the employer and let him sign a contract for a 50 per cent raise while he is unconscious.

MARCEL'S SALVAGE

The following message to us over the outfit board:

"When I was alive I was a famous actress. Kings paid homage to me and newspaper men published long articles about me in the Sunday editions. My jewels were admired and my gowns were copied. My life was a success. But here from post-humous I send you a message. Never get away from the human touch of life. Love is the foundation of it all. A selfish person knows not what life is. Live in the happiness of others. Be big and love humanity. The small mind misses so much. I was a successful actress, and that means that I have lived. Laugh as often as you can, and that is oftener than you are laughing now. Be part of the scheme of things, and when you must go, take it from me, it is not so bad after all."

MARCEL STEINBRIDGE.

Old Ed Howe of Potato Hill insists, in his "Monthly," that society items are of no public benefit or interest. But he is mistaken. The reading of society doings is always a great inspiration to us. It makes us happy. We read of the functions and are glad we don't have to attend.

A New York man climbed a telephone pole and went to sleep lying across the wires, forty feet from the ground. Prohibition booze seems to contain more of the spirit of adventure than the old stuff did.

WHAT THE STARS PREDICT TODAY

This is an exceptionally lucky day.

All political affairs have a good augury.

The stars predict violent storms in the autumn, and unprecedented waves of water weather.

This should be a luck rule for the President who will find many of his policies successfully carried out.

An increase in trade with foreign lands is indicated.

Persons whose birthday this is should safeguard their health.

Children born on this day will achieve success thru perseverance.

HEALTH HINTS

By William Brady, M. D.

TEACHERS RIGHTS AND CHILDREN'S LEFTS

Some mentally retarded children in Longford Colony Special Schools in England had remained stationary for about three years and were about five years retarded in mental development according to the Binet-Simons tests. They could not be taught to read or write, could not recognize letters by sound and had no conception of number value. Mr. A. E. Lewis, headmaster of the school, taught them to use the left hand in backward drawing, at first from the shoulder and later from the elbow and wrists. All the movements taught being "mirror movements" (the reverse of the usual right hand movements). Aside from the alphabet, the children were especially drilled in visual memory of pictures and objects and in their pictorial expression. By the end of the third month of this scientific experiment the children had gained remarkably over half the class could now connect sound with letter, although the symbols were still in "mirror writing."

The children were now required to practice regular or right-hand movements with the left hand, but curiously enough this soon resulted in pronounced stammering. The stammering developed only when the children were required to attempt regular right-hand movements with the left hand; that is, when they were required to overcome the natural "mirror" writing of left-handedness. Mr. Lewis, however, is a teacher with plastic gray matter; his mind is not "set." He now withdrew the restriction and gave the children full liberty to resume their mirror writing or natural left-handedness. In short, Mr. Lewis had enough vision and intelligence to break away from his strange, one-handed method of education and to undertake the training of both sides of the brain in even mentally backward pupils. The blackboard was employed for large scale drawing from the shoulder with the two arms simultaneously, the left carrying out the mirrored movements of the right. The children were also trained in various other bi-manual exercises—such as throwing balls, swinging light clubs.

At first the left-handed movements were dominant and the right subsidiary, but gradually both hands acquired skill and steadiness, the speech defects disappeared, and the children's response to the Binet-Simons tests steadily improved, so that they could soon write simple letters and words from copy and dictation.

Sir Edwin Henry Landseer, the famous English painter, was a marvel in ambidexterity. Every child should receive a two-handed education.

ZENA FINDS A ROOM

As I boarded the car, the man raised his hat and with a smile on his pasty face and a look that said plainly as words, "you'd better try the address I gave you," started watching me until the car stood on.

While there had seemingly been nothing in the incident to arouse my fears—a decent looking man speaking to me, offering to help me, on broad day light yet I shivered when I took my seat. If he were an honest man, meant kindness to me, why had he not spoken to the matron in my behalf when he saw me talking to her? But I soon dismissed him from my mind. Matters of more importance engaged me.

I rode for many blocks before I came to the street where the matron had advised me to try to get a room. When I saw the dingy house, the dirty children playing on the sidewalk, my heart almost failed me. But a place to sleep I must have, a taking my courage in both hands I rang the bell of Number 22—a house kept by Mrs. Lynch, as a reference to the card told me.

A slightly paid, austere of the door, and as she stood looking curiously at me, I asked for Mrs. Lynch.

"Set down here," she pointed to a chair standing beside the old-fashioned, dusty bed-rock. She gave me a quick flick with her apron, "I'll tell her."

She ran down the bare stairs as I could tell by the sound, calling as she went.

"Mrs. Lynch! A lady to see you!" After a few moments' waiting, a stout, natly Irish woman came bounding up the stairs, and greeted me.

"What can I do for you, Miss?" She eyed me but brow on her not over-clean apron.

"Mrs. Murphy at the station sent me to you. Have you a room for a few days for me?"

"Why—yes if Murphy sent you, I guess I can fix you up." I could not understand her hesitation until she added, "You don't look like them the almost always sends."

"My clothes again?" I would like to look at the room," I said.

"Come with me," She led the way up two long flights of stairs, carpeted but shabby and needing brushing, especially in the corners. She opened the door of a tiny hall that the room, the very sight of which made me feel nauseated. A small white iron bed, an old-fashioned yellow pine bureau, an oak washstand upon which stood wash-bowl and pitcher, one chair, a small piece

VARIATION—O'Mulvaney, Mulleny, O'Mulvena, Melvin, MacIvna, MacIwne, MacIvna.

RACIAL ORIGIN—Irish, also Scottish.

SOURCE—A given name.

It would be hard to find a set of family names in one group which are so little associated with one another in the average mind. Yet they all come from the same source.

Certain of them, such as Melvin, MacIwne and MacIvna, are, perhaps, more commonly found among families of Scottish blood in this country. The Mulvaney, O'Mulvaney's Mulleny and O'Mulvena are more likely to be of Irish extraction, certainly so in those names which are preceded by "O."

Like virtually all the Gaelic names the great diversity of spelling in these different forms is the result of the attempt to spell the names in English as they sound in their original Celtic tongue rather than to transcribe the Celtic spelling into the English equivalent.

If this latter were done the correct form of the name would be "Maolfhiona," or "MacMaolfhiona." It is from the latter form that the Scottish variations of the name are derived thru the elimination, for easier pronunciation, of the initial "M" in the body of the name, thus, "Mac(M)-Aolfhiona" is easily transformed, in view of its pronunciation, into "Mac Ilvain."

The family or clan name comes from the given name of "Maolfhiona," the meaning of which is "devotee of wine." Such a name, of course, was considered no disgrace in the distant past, when it was formed, long before the period even of Mohammed, the first prohibitionist.

"Mrs. Lynch had a room. I took it for a week."

"I am glad she could accommodate you. Her house isn't very clean. She's rough, but good-hearted—and you'll be safe." I didn't think of it then, but afterward that "you'll be safe" occurred to me many times.

To my astonishment, as I presented my check for my suit case, I saw the same pesty-looking man hovering in the office. Had he really tried to bedevil me? Was he, like Mrs. Murphy, at the station for that reason—to help caption "Female Help Wanted."

AT AGE OF 60 GAINS TWENTY-FIVE POUNDS

Toledo Woman Says She Never Saw Anybody Improve as Fast as She Did After She Began Taking Tonic.

"I have gained twenty-five pounds by taking Tonic and while I am sixty years old I was never before in better health in my life," was the remarkable statement made recently by Mrs. Hannah Newman of 1120 Madison-ave, Toledo.

"I was so bad off with rheumatism that my whole body ached and if I set down in a chair I could not get up unless someone helped me. My hands hurt awfully and at times would swell so bad it looked like I would lose the use of them entirely. My feet were the same way and often were so swollen I could not get my shoes on."

"My stomach gave me no end of trouble and my appetite had become so poor that I could not eat enough to keep up my strength. The gas on my stomach was awful and my head would palpitate at a terrific rate."

"My nerves were easily upset and any little noise would excite me terribly. I fell off in weight until I became alarmed over my condition."

"I realized that if something wasn't done it would soon be too late. I had a friend who had been taking Tonic and thought there was nothing in the world like it, and she insisted so on me taking it that I decided to try it. And I'll declare it is just simply wonderful. Why, I have never seen anybody in my life improve as fast as I have."

"The rheumatic pains have all gone and the swelling has disappeared entirely from my hands and feet. I have a splendid appetite and my big gain in weight shows how well everything I eat agrees with me. My nerves are as calm and steady as I could want them and I feel so well and strong in every way that my household is now a real pleasure. My husband had been in bad health for a long time and nothing he took seemed to do him a bit of good. When he saw how fast Tonic was building me up he began taking it, too, and it has helped him just like it did me and today he is in better health than he has been in many years."

"We have told lots of our friends about Tonic and both of us just think it is the most wonderful medicine in the world."

Tonic is sold in Lima at Hunter's Drug Stores and the leading druggists in every town.—Adv.

SOCIETY : CLUBS : PERSONAL

BY MARGARET SIMPSON

One of the most elaborate and summer affairs was given Tuesday evening at the Shawnee Country club, when the members of the club entertained with a farewell dinner dance and card party honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Linneman, who will leave soon for California to make their future home.

Possibly no other members of the club have done more towards its success than Mr. and Mrs. Linneman, who have been active in both the golf and social life of the club, and the appreciation of the club was fittingly shown Tuesday evening.

The two long tables at which the guests were seated were arranged in the dining room and on the porch with baskets of pink and white gladioli placed attractively at intervals on the tables. Pink cathedral canopies in crystal holders furnished the only illumination.

Following the dinner, W. L. Parmenter, in behalf of the club members, presented Mr. Linneman with a magnificent silver basket in appreciation of the cooperation of the Linnemans in making the Shawnee Country club a success. Mrs. Linneman was presented with a lovely watch bag. Mr. and Mrs. Linneman accompanied with unusually interesting talks, Warren J. SUSIE SMART SAYS:

Dear Susie Smart: I am a married lady twenty-five years of age and have been married two years. We have one sweet baby. Before baby came my husband was kind to me, but since he has given me but very few kind words. He seems to love baby, but cares nothing for me, which nearly breaks my heart.

I find that I do not care for him as I did one day. As soon as he comes home he begins to scold and curse and uses so much profanity that I am happier when he is away. Should I live with him and bring baby up in such a home? Or what can I do to break him of cursing? Why are men so much like brutes, and do the majority of them treat their wives with no respect whatever? I was brought up in a good and refined home and to live with a man like my husband is almost unbearable. He has fits of temper and throws things across the house and curses until I wonder how the merciful God can give a person breath to use such language.

Young girls who read this, take advice from one who has had experience. Do not marry before you are twenty. That is plenty young enough. You may think you have trouble while single, but that is nothing compared to married trouble.

I try to be agreeable and make home life pleasant, but get so discouraged. My husband is kind to neighbors and has a lot of friends. He has an entirely different disposition outside of home. I am disgusted with such a life. What can I do? It is degrading to live with such a person.

TROUBLED WIFE. No, you should not bring your baby up in such a home if you can help it. You are too young to sacrifice yourself to a home where you are not honored. I firmly believe that your husband will value you if he loses you. If you have parents to go to, make them a visit and tell your husband that when he is ready to treat you with respect and kindness he can come for you. Say that you have had enough of his swearing and abuse.

You ask if the majority of men are brutes. That would be a pretty harsh verdict to mankind. Try to keep faith in the goodness of man. Trust that the brute you now see is only a demon who has entered a

'A LADY IN LOVE' FAIR PICTURE

Ethel Clayton Plays Lead and Makes Good As Usual

GIRL GETS ENOUGH THRILLS

Other Members of Cast Are Good —Theater News

(BY ESTHER WAGNER.)

FROM the standpoint of production, it may be said that "A Lady in Love" starring Ethel Clayton, is rather well-done, but somehow, it misses fire. Miss Clayton's role as a care-free girl, brought up in the convent, is not the best part she has ever played, but then she is capable enough to make a success of most anything she undertakes. Barbara Martin, looking for adventures, elopes with her guardian's black-sheep brother and finds all the adventures she is looking for. How did she know he had a wife and child and that he was mixed up in a lot of dishonest doings? Well, that's the kind of a man she married, but she deserted him right then and there, or rather, he deserted her. Things were getting too hot, so he left.

Appears on the scene a handsome young lawyer, to be exact, Harrison Ford, who is willing to go thru fire and water to win Barbara, and she, well, she decides that she wants a divorce immediately, for she hadn't thought much about it before. And the lawyer her guardian consults is none other than the man she wants to marry. That's enough about the plot.

As usual, Ethel plays with due regard to the glow in her hair, and never misses an opportunity to get under the lights. C. D. Gehart who plays the guardian, is one of the best characters in the cast, and the ball-room scenes are gorgeous. There's not much that is objectionable and for an hour at least it'll provide good entertainment.

REGENT NOW SHOWING

THE ROOM WITH THE TASELS

BY CAROLYN WELLS

EVE'S EXPERIENCE

The investigators had investigated for a week. They were now having tea in the great hall, to whose shadow distances and shabby appointments they had become somewhat accustomed.

Kept up to the mark by the Landons, old Jed Thorpe had developed positive talents as a butler, and with plenty of lamps and candles, and a couple of willing, if ignorant maids, the household machinery ran smoothly. Supplies were procured from East Dryden or sent up from New York markets and by day the party was really a gay-hearted, merry-mannered country house group.

Every day at tea-time they recounted any individual experiences that might seem mysterious, and discussed them.

"It's this way," Professor Hardwick summed up: "the determining factor in the dark. Ghosts and haunted houses are all very well at night, but daylight dispels them as a sound breaks silence."

"What about my experience when I slept in the Room with the Tassels?" growled Gifford Bruce.

Braye laughed. "You quessed yourself, Uncle Gif, when you announced before we started, that you were not bound to good faith. Your ghost stories are discounted before you tell 'em!"

"But I did see a shape—a shadowy form, like a tall woman with a shawl over her head."

"You dreamed it," said Milly, smiling at him. "Or else—"

"Milly doesn't say it," laughed Eve. "But I will. Or else, you invented the yarn."

"If I'm to be called a—"

"Tut, tut, Mr. Bruce," interrupted Tracy. "Nobody called you one! Playful prevarication is all right, especially as you warned us you'd fool us if you could. Now I can tell an experience and justly expect to be believed."

"But you haven't had any," and Eve's translucent eyes turned to him.

"I have," began Tracy, slowly, "but they've been a bit indefinite. It's unsatisfactory to present only an impression or a suggestion, where facts are wanted. And the Professor says truly that hints and haunts are convincing at night, but repeated, at a pleasant, comfortable tea hour, they sound flimsy and unconvincing."

"What did you think you saw or heard?" asked Norma, with a remonstrant, far-off look in her eyes.

"Every morning, or almost every morning, at four o'clock, I seem to hear the trailing robes of a presence of some sort. I seem to hear a faint moaning sound, that is like nothing human."

"That's imagination," said Braye, promptly.

"It is, doubtless," agreed Hardwick, "but it is due to what may be called 'expectant attention.' If we had not connected four o'clock with the story of this house, Mr. Tracy would not have those hallucinations at that time."

"Perhaps so," the clergyman looked thoughtful. "But it seems vivid and real at the time. Then, in the later morning, it is merely a hazy memory."

"You know Mr. Stebbins said that every one who died in this house always died at four o'clock."

"I know he said so," and Braye looked quizzical.

"Oh, come now, don't doubt honest old Stebbins!" and Eve frowned. "We must believe his word."

LOVE AND MARRIED LIFE

BY IDA MCGONE GIBSON

KATHERINE BANISHES THE GLOOMS

I went back into the baby's nursery and found that she was sleeping quite calmly. I said to myself: "Now I'm going to make myself miserable again, because I know that John is out with Elizabeth Moreland. He, of course, does not dream that the baby is so ill and he told me this afternoon that this was the last time he would leave me alone and I know that he meant it. I was sorry I had inquired of Henriette about Elizabeth. I knew that she would tell her I had done so when she came in. Henriette did not like Elizabeth and she did like me and she had shown in many ways since I had returned that she did not approve of John's attentions to Elizabeth."

Madam Gordon, too, was leaving Elizabeth more to herself than she had at first. I could see that they were not going to be good friends, for if they lived together, I knew that Elizabeth was not particularly happy with John's mother and that it would only be a question of time when she would leave there.

Someway, I could not get Karl Shepard's peculiar letter out of my head. I asked myself was my baby going to die and was that the trouble that was coming to me and was that why he was hurrying home? I dismissed this quickly, however, because I knew that for this kind of trouble Karl Shepard could bring no solace. He, as well as I, knew that for the loss of my child, if it should be that I had to lose her, and blood, let me ask them—he or she—to step inside of a place where a prize fight is going on. They will learn some bitter truths about the weaker sex. I did. My, how some of the women present enjoyed the roughest part of the fight! And truth to tell so did a certain lady! Yes, siree. And did not faint at the sight of blood, which flowed freely.

I always knew that I had savage blood in me somewhere.

I grow more appreciative of the gifts of the gods—and the goodness of my family and friends the more I work. It takes some characters that way, don't you know? "What time will you go to Washington?" a traveling agent asked the railroad information clerk.

"Two-to" replied the official. "You no understand, mister! The Celestial I know the train go too-fo" I no ask how he go, I ask when he go."

One of Sir Thomas Lipton's favorite stories concern an old sailor who was asked to tell a story.

the first time and was induced to take a dollar in the third year on a 10 to 1 shot. By some miracle this horse won on a 10 to 1 shot. The bookmaker handed the old man his winnings. He could hardly believe his eyes.

Don't you mean to tell me I got all this for one dollar, he exclaimed. "You do," replied the bookmaker. "My consolation," muttered the seafarer, "but in men who long have this thing been going on."

A certain high school teacher had a regular routine of questions which she asked her class every Sunday. The class was always puzzled in the same order and she in with the same question.

Who made you? And the boy replied, "The boy that God made is not here today."

Combing Won't Rid Hair Of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon, apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

Local Citizen Declares He Feels Like a Different Man Since He Discovered the Dizzy Spills, Weak Kidneys, Indigestion and Gastritis.

New Remedy Dico Was Prompt in Action and Pleasant in Effect. Recommends It Strongly.

There is probably no other medicine of its kind has won the praise that Dico has during the past few months. That is, in this section men and women who have given themselves up as incurable in coming forward with their ablest statements telling what Dico is accomplished for them after almost everything else had failed.

I've no more now I wish my dear old dad would postpone running a couple of hundred miles in a week. With who is employed in the boiler shop of the Solar Refining Co. and lives on R. No. 9, Lima, O.

I enjoy my sleep now, where before I'd roll and toss all night long and be worn out next morning. I was afraid I was about to be laid on the shelf for my work seemed to be a full-time job. I had a full feeling of rest with no more aches and pains. I'd frequently get very dizzy and had itching pains in my back directly over my kidneys. I was bothered all the time and had a full feeling of rest with no more aches and pains.

Since I took a treatment of Dico I feel like another man. I haven't had one of those "spills" pains in my back all gone and I feel hearty and active in the all effects before. I'm as good as new and I strongly recommend it.

The old-fashioned remedies made from roots and herbs are the best for my case to take. In case of kidney trouble, Dico is the best. It's a full feeling of rest with no more aches and pains. Collins
Safety Razor

Some Razor!

And we will give you
ten FREE shaves to prove it

Never was there a razor like this! All the old straight-edged, pulling, scraping, face-torturing razors are out of the running. Collins is an entirely new KIND of razor, with a smooth-cutting, built-in diagonal stroke and a clean slice that slips the stiffest stubble from your face as easily as wet soap slides through your fingers. The tougher your beard, the better you'll like it. You'll like the round guard that fits your face and pulls the skin taut, ready for the blade. You'll like the ROUND blade that gives you a two-way stroke, that cuts sideways and down or sideways and up at the same time. You'll like the way it catches every hair at the point of least resistance, and slices it off without flattening it down, without pulling or scraping your skin or turning in the hairs. Man, alive, you sure will LIKE it! You'd better beat it to the nearest dealer for one of these Collins Razors right away. We happen to know that there haven't been enough to go 'round so far.

Give It a Work-out at Our Expense

Give yourself ten of the smoothest, easiest, cleanest, most satisfying shaves you have ever known. Try it on your groughest mornings—use it without working up the lather properly or softening your beard sufficiently—be as unfair to it as you know how. Then, if you can find one small flaw in its razor perfection, take it back to the dealer and get your money. That's fair enough, isn't it?
